The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery"—was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famous "Golden Medical Discovery" for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valued medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, and the testimonials of thousands of men who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little look at these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

CONFRONTED BY FORMER HUSBAND.

After 35 years of silence Richard R. B. Goodman, who says he married Rachel Anne Richardson Brown, the claimant to the $50,000 estate of the aged John A. Brown, rose to confront her yesterday morning in Probate Court of Washington with the words: "She is Rachel Anne Goodman."

Gray, wrinkle and bent, the man stood like a ghost of a childhood love. Unless the attorneys for Mrs. Brown can prove that she had secured a divorce from him, which they attempted to do yesterday afternoon, his presence threatened to turn the case against her. Goodman says he married the woman in 1873 when she was but 15 years old.

The woman married aged John Brown while he was paralyzed, and upon what proved to be his death bed. When she first took the stand Benjamin Schwartz, lawyer for the estate, who is contesting the woman's claim, handed her one of the marriage license records. She identified her signature on the application for the license for herself and Brown. She acknowledged that she had previously married Richard R. B. Goodman, her first cousin, but said an application had been made in Matthews county, Va., for a divorce.

Mr. Schwartz turned to a white-haired man who had been sitting quietly beside him. "Stand up!" he said, and then, turning to the witness, asked: "Is this the man you married?"

The woman looked at the man. She breathed heavily, and her hands clasped and unclasped.

"I cannot tell. I see no resemblance. It has been 35 years ago," she almost whispered.

"When did you last see the man you married?" was asked the woman.

"Little over a month after the marriage. We were married in January, 1873. I saw him last in February, when he placed me aboard the steamer with my mother."

Goodman was then called, and said he recognized the woman as Rachel Anne Goodman, the woman he married in 1873.

FLYING MACHINE TESTS.

Novel tests for the demonstration of the efficiency of the flying machine as an instrument of warfare are being mapped out by the Wright Brothers for the trials of their aeroplane at Fort Myer next June.

One plan is to map out the outline of a battleship on the ground and have the aeroplane, starting from some point outside, sail above and drop a missile in the middle of the imaginary vessel. Other demonstrations will show that the aeroplane is an element to be reckoned with in the battles of the future.

The question now is whether mechanical flight can be so regulated that it can be utilized in warfare. The value of the aeroplane to the army depends upon the successful solution of this problem. The Wright Brothers, to meet the requirements of the contract, are not obliged to do more than maintain an hour's flight with two men in the machine. They would achieve a greater triumph if the aeroplane could carry explosives and drop them with a fair degree of accuracy.

THE BELLS LAMENT

The Bells of Lent once seem'd to say,—
"Come ye, and worship God today!"
Now, Bridge and Punch Bowl hold full
And jollies! and a-out to play!
Prayer's hallow'd hours? Lent's silver chimes?
Forsooth—ye're far "behind the times!"
Like Mother Goose's merry rhymes:
They love the clang of silver dime!
The penitential tears they shed—
When eyeballs ache and lids are red—
Are those—when they go broken dead
With empi'd pockets home to bed?
They count the spell they weave to wrap
Their sins in a dream when flat?
The cards upon the deal board slip—
And coins pour in the Luck-girl's lap!
Sometimes—forgetting what they are—
When Luck smiles not, they softly swear—
And, my liege, pull some lace's hair—
Their kind are swift to do or dare!
The sanctity of home lies dead!
Joy's fastid' gurl and o'er it spied—
Hope—hatter'd—like a phantom fled—
Along—rings out the Diva's tread!
Chime on, ye bells—clang your refrain—
Woof, these vot'ries home again
To penitential grief and pain—
The Christ may heal, and cleanse each
Featherly to them—"Jesu die!"
For them, God's Son was crucified—
For them—the pike pierc'd thro' His side—
For them—poor'd out life's crimson tide!

Rheumatism.

More than nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles, due to cold or damp weather or chronic rheumatism. In such cases no internal treatment is required. The free application of Chamberlain's Liniment is all that is needed, and it is certain to give quick relief. Give it a trial and see for yourself how quickly it relieves the pain and soreness. Price, 25 cents; large size, 50 cents. For sale by W. F. Creighton & Co., and Richard Gibson.
